Press Release

Marc C. Hebert Joins Jones Walker

Baton Rouge, La., September 26, 2005—Jones Walker announced today that Marc Hebert has joined the firm in its New Orleans office, temporarily relocated to Baton Rouge, and will continue to practice in the area of general business law, with an emphasis on energy, marine and administrative law and litigation, furthering the expansion of this practice for the firm. He represents a broad range of clients including large Fortune 500 companies and small companies in the marine and energy, manufacturing, telecommunications and transportation industries.

Mr. Hebert is a graduate of Tulane University, having received his B.A., in 1991, his J.D. from Loyola University School of Law in 1994, and his LL.M. from George Washington University Law Center in 1996.

William H. Hines, managing partner of Jones Walker stated, “Marc Hebert joins our law firm at a challenging, but exciting time. He adds depth to our general business practice and to the energy component that will truly benefit our many clients who are working to restore their businesses after the recent devastating hurricanes.”

Mr. Hebert plans to continue in the representation of clients on legal and government relations’ strategies, legislative and policy matters, management of client issues in U.S. and foreign jurisdictions whether related to maritime, environmental, complex business litigation or regulatory matters. “As a full service law firm, Jones Walker provides a broader and greater depth of representation for those clients I represent, and will offer me the opportunity to assist them with a wider range of services,” said Mr. Hebert.

Jones Walker, with over 220 attorneys, provides the full range of legal services to a sophisticated national and international corporate client base through offices in Florida, Louisiana, Texas and Washington, D.C. For more information, visit www.joneswalker.com.
